

Dr. Marcia McFee is an author, worship designer and leader, professor, preacher and artist. Her engaging and interactive style has been called “refreshing,” “inspiring,” and “unforgettable.” Marcia combines her background and experience in professional companies of music, theater and dance with a variety of worship and preaching styles in order to bring a fresh experience of the Gospel to each worship setting. Marcia has provided worship design and leadership at numerous national and regional gatherings.

Marcia’s passion for helping the church to worship God fully is especially directed toward the education of local congregations. She travels extensively in order to teach regional workshops that are accessible to congregational leaders and worship teams. These one-day workshops are usually hosted by a church, underwritten by district or conference bodies or by registration fees, and open to all churches in a particular area. Participants have commented that these workshops are inspirational as well as practical, no matter the “style” of worship practiced or denomination of the participants.

Dr. McFee received a Master's of Theological Studies degree at Saint Paul School of Theology with a concentration in Preaching and Worship and a Ph.D. in Liturgical Studies at the Graduate Theological Union. She has been a guest lecturer and adjunct faculty at six seminaries and served as the North Texas Conference (UMC) Consultant on Worship & the Arts.

Learn more at www.marciamcfee.com

Marcia McFee

Email: worshipworkshop@aol.com

Internet: www.marciamcfee.com

Marcia McFee is committed to building up the church by empowering congregations to celebrate and utilize their inherent creativity and diversity in order to worship God fully, thereby forming disciples to be the Body of Christ in the world. She is an author, worship designer and leader, professor, preacher and artist. Her engaging and interactive style has been called “refreshing,” “inspiring,” and “unforgettable.” Marcia combines her background and experience in professional companies of music, theater and dance with a variety of worship and preaching styles in order to bring a fresh experience of the Gospel to each worship setting.

Dr. McFee’s innovative teaching techniques have received notice from such institutions as the Wabash Center for Teaching and Learning in Theology and Religion. She engages students, whether in seminary or workshop settings, in interactive theoretical discussion as well as hands-on experiential learning—turning educational settings into occasions of worship and spiritual awakening. Her own educational credits include a Bachelor’s degree from New York University, a Master’s of Theological Studies from Saint Paul School of Theology with a concentration in Preaching and Worship, and a Ph.D. in Liturgical Studies with an allied field of Ethics from the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, California.

Marcia has provided worship design and leadership at numerous gatherings of the United Methodist Church, including Annual, Jurisdictional and General Conferences and gatherings of general agencies such as the General Board of Global Ministries, the Commission on the Status and Role of Women, the General Board of Discipleship, the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry, the General Board of Church and Society and the General Commission on Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns. This type of leadership also extends to several conferences in other denominations such as the United Church of Christ and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), among others.

Marcia’s passion for helping the church to worship God fully is especially directed toward the education of local congregations. She travels extensively in order to teach regional workshops that are accessible to congregational leaders and worship teams. These one-day workshops are usually hosted by a church, underwritten by district or conference bodies or by registration fees, and open to all churches in a particular area. Participants have commented that these workshops are inspirational as well as practical, no matter the “style” of worship practiced or denomination of the participants. She is the author of The Worship Workshop: Creative Ways to Design Worship Together (Abingdon, 2002), an interactive resource that guides worship teams through evaluation, study and design of worship. Her book on worship leadership is forthcoming.