

Dear Adult Responsible for Youth at Asilomar 2005,

Congratulations! You have answered a call to be responsible for a youth who is participating in Asilomar 2005. The Northern California Nevada Conference of the United Church of Christ has worked diligently this past year to help make Asilomar a safe and welcoming experience for the youth of this conference. Therefore, as the adult responsible for a youth at Asilomar, we would like to you covenant with us that you will:

- 1) Require the youth to actively and fully participate in all conference and youth activities
- 2) Require the youth to adhere to the youth covenant which they will have previously signed upon arrival to Asilomar
- 3) Support the decisions made by the Asilomar youth director team
- 4) Understand that youth are not allowed to go beyond boundaries set up by the Asilomar youth director team unless accompanied by an adult 21 years or older.
- 5) Check-in with youth throughout the weekend to make sure that they are actively participating in the conference
- 6) Check-in with the youth director team throughout the weekend to make sure that the youth is participating

We would like to see this weekend as a opportunity to enhance the youth's role as leaders in the conference. We see the Annual Meeting as an opportunity for strong youth leaders to come together to share ideas and have a rewarding spiritual experience. We hope that you will consider taking on the role of a mentor, guiding your youth through the sometimes confusing weekend and encouraging them to fully utilize the time that they have at the gathering.

When you arrive at registration for Asilomar, please accompany the youth to the youth registration table and introduce yourself to Kristen Anderson, Asilomar Youth Director. We are delighted that you have taken on this awesome responsibility of guiding future leaders of the church toward conference leadership roles. This is the first step to being Radically Hospitable.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact one of the planners below. Thank you so much for your support.

Blessings,

Kristen Anderson
